

Politics in Europe

Seventh Edition

M. Donald Hancock
Vanderbilt University, USA

Christopher J. Carman
University of Glasgow, UK

Marjorie Castle
University of Utah, USA

David P. Conradt
East Carolina University, USA

Mary N. Hampton
*Air Command and Staff College,
Maxwell Air Force Base*

Robert Leonardi
LUISS, Italy

Raffaella Y. Nanetti
University of Illinois at Chicago, USA

William Safran
University of Colorado–Boulder, USA

Stephen White
University of Glasgow, UK

Michelle Hale Williams
University of West Florida, Pensacola

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC | Melbourne

CONTENTS

Preface	xiv
Aknowledgments	xv
About the Authors	xvi
Introduction	xix
PART 1 • UNITED KINGDOM	1
Christopher J. Carman and Kathleen Volk Miller
1.1 The Context of British Politics	3
British Diversity	3
A United Kingdom of Four Countries	4
Stability and Change	11
Traditional and Modern: The Political Culture of the United Kingdom	13
Class Politics, but . . .	14
Conservatively Liberal Policy Ideas	17
Isolated but European	18
1.2 Where Is the Power?	22
British Parliamentary Government	24
The Monarch	26
The Prime Minister	27
The Cabinet and Government	30
Parliament	32
The Civil Service	39
The Judiciary	41
The Rest of Government	42
1.3 Who Has the Power?	48
Political Parties	48
The Party and Electoral Systems	49
The Two Major Parties	53
The Labour Party	54
The Conservative Party	57

Voting and Elections	60
Voter Turnout	61
Partisan Choice by Voters	62
Pressure Groups and Corporatism	66
Major Interest Groups	66
Patterns of Influence	68
1.4 How Is Power Used?	72
The Parliamentary Process and New Policies	73
Agenda Setting and Policy Formulation	73
Policy Continuation: Budgeting	80
Policymaking in Great Britain	84
1.5 What Is the Future of British Politics?	87
The Economy	87
The Public Sector	89
Who Rules Great Britain?	90
Who Rules in Government?	91
Continued Devolution, Breakup, or What?	93
PART 2 • FRANCE	97
William Safran and Michelle Hale Williams
2.1 The Context of French Politics	99
Religion and Social Class	101
Education	104
Revolutions, Regime Changes, and Legitimacy Crises	106
Aspects of French Political Culture	109
2.2 Where Is the Power?	113
The President and the Government	113
The Parliament	126
The Administrative State	132
2.3 Who Has the Power?	142
Political Parties: Traditional “Political Families”	142
Elections in the Fifth Republic	145
The Future of Political Parties: Rivalries, Divisions, and Uncertainties	174
Interest Groups	176

2.4 How Is Power Used?	185
Deputies, Senators, and Decisions	186
Bureaucratic Politics	190
Delegating Responsibility for Decisions	192
Conflicts Within the System	193
2.5 What Is the Future of French Politics?	196
Stability, Modernization, and Democracy	196
Administration and Justice: Developments and Reforms	196
Problems and Prospects for France	199
The Economic Challenge: Welfare Statism and “Neoliberalism”	199
Foreign Policy: Europe and Beyond	203
Societal and Systemic Issues	207
PART 3 • GERMANY	215
David P. Conradt
3.1 The Context of German Politics	217
Historical Context	218
Geographic and Demographic Context	230
Religion	231
Socioeconomic Structure	232
Education	234
Political Attitudes	236
3.2 Where Is the Power?	242
Policymaking Institutions	242
3.3 Who Has the Power?	259
Political Parties	259
Interest Groups	272
The German Voter, 1949–2017	279
Unified Germany at the Polls, 1990–2017	280
Voting Behavior	282
3.4 How Is Power Used?	287
Semipublic Institutions	288
The Social Security and Health Systems	289

Federal Labor Agency	290
How Power Was Used in the Kohl Era, 1982–1998	291
How Power Was Used in the Unification Process	292
The Use of Power by Schröder’s Red–Green Coalition, 1998–2002	293
How Power Was Used: The Grand Coalition, 2005–2009	295
Merkel’s Second Government: The CDU–FDP Coalition, 2009–2013	296
How Power Was Used: Merkel’s Third Term, 2013–2017	298
The Process of Policy Implementation	299
3.5 What Is the Future of German Politics?	302
Germany and the Euro Crisis	302
The Problem of Putin’s Russia	304
Immigration	304
Immigration and Asylum	306
Xenophobia and Right-Wing Violence	306
Germany’s International Role	307
Institutional Gridlock and the Federal System	309
Putting Germany Back Together Again: The Continued Challenge of Rebuilding and Integrating the East	310
The Economic Reconstruction of the East	311
PART 4 • ITALY	315
Raffaella Y. Nanetti and Robert Leonardi
4.1 The Context of Italian Politics	317
Historical Context	320
Socioeconomic Context	327
Religion	330
Education	332
Political Culture	333
4.2 Where Is the Power?	338
The President: Guarantor of the Constitution and Ceremonial Chief of State	338
The Prime Minister and the Cabinet	342
The Parliament	344
The Bureaucracy	349
The Judiciary	351
Subnational Governments	354

4.3 Who Has the Power?	359
Political Parties	359
The Voters: The Electoral System and Voting Behavior	397
Interest Groups	403
4.4 How Is Power Used?	414
The Multilevel Governance System in Italy	414
Policy Formulation	416
Policy Implementation and the Principle of Subsidiarity	419
Policy Outputs	420
Italy's Economic Policy, 2000–2016	429
4.5 What Is the Future of Italian Politics?	435
Elements of Strength and Seeds of Crisis in the Italian Political System	435
The Italian Economy: Competitiveness in an Enlarged European Market	438
Italy and the European Union	440
The Question of Institutional Reform	443
An Uncertain Future	445
PART 5 • SWEDEN	451
M. Donald Hancock
5.1 The Context of Swedish Politics	453
Sweden's Welfare State	453
Long-Term Social Democratic Dominance	455
Neutrality and Internationalism	456
Globalization and European Integration	457
Contrasting Views of Swedish Achievements	457
Geography, Resources, and Population	458
Early Political Development	460
Democratization and Industrialization	461
Political Culture: Constants and Change	462
5.2 Where Is the Power?	465
The Riksdag	465
The Prime Minister and the Cabinet	468
The Monarch	469
Other Institutional Actors	469
A Consensual Democracy	473

5.3 Who Has the Power?	474
Political Parties	474
Profiles of the Political Parties	478
Sweden's Newer Parties	482
Administrative Elites	486
Elections	486
Elections to the European Parliament	489
Governments and Oppositions	489
5.4 How Is Power Used?	492
Policy Process	492
Policy Outcomes	493
Dealignment and Erosion of the Traditional Swedish Model: A Chronology	497
Sweden and the European Union	505
Return of the Nonsocialists to Power	506
The 2010 and 2014 Elections: Swedish Politics Under Duress	508
2014 Political Crisis	508
Restricting Immigration	508
5.5 What Is the Future of Swedish Politics?	511
Toward a Cash-Free Society	511
An End to Neutrality?	512
A "New Nordic Model"	512
PART 6 • RUSSIA	517
Stephen White and Mary N. Hampton
6.1 The Context of Russian Politics	519
A Continent More Than a Country	519
A Slavic People	520
The Impact of Communist Rule	522
Political Development and Democratization	525
Gorbachev and Perestroika	526
6.2 Where Is the Power?	534
The Russian Presidency	535
Presidential Power in Postcommunist Russia	537
Electing the Russian President	539
The Premier and Government	543
The Duma and the Legislative Process	544

6.3 Who Has the Power?	547
Toward Competitive Politics	548
The Political Parties	552
Parties and Politics in Postcommunist Russia	555
6.4 How Is Power Used?	559
Privatizing the Economy	560
Foreign and Security Policy	564
The Commonwealth of Independent States and the East	569
6.5 What Is the Future of Russian Politics?	574
An Incomplete Democracy	575
Human Rights	576

PART 7 • POLAND 583

Marjorie Castle

7.1 The Context of Polish Politics	585
Geographic and Historical Context	586
Present-Day Cleavages	594
Political Culture	597
7.2 Where Is the Power?	600
Politics by Trial and Error: Changing Rules With Uncertain Implications	600
The Institutions of Power	604
7.3 Who Has the Power?	613
Parties and the Party System	613
Other Political Forces at Work	625
7.4 How Is Power Used?	628
Three Criteria: Electoral Accountability, Policy Responsiveness, and Policy Effectiveness	628
Explaining How Power Has Been Used	631
7.5 What Is the Future of Polish Politics?	634

PART 8 • EUROPEAN UNION 639

M. Donald Hancock

8.1 The Context of European Union Politics	641
Basic Characteristics of the European Union	642

Origins of the European Union	643
From the ECSC to the EEC	644
British Responses and EFTA	644
Further Expansion of Membership	645
Deepening of European Integration	645
National Wealth	646
Levels of Economic Development	648
International Trade	650
The European Union as a Security Community	650
NATO and the European Union	651
8.2 Where Is the Power?	653
Objectives and Levels of EU Competence	653
EU Institutions	654
The European Council and the Council of Ministers	655
The European Council	656
Qualified Majority Voting	659
The European Commission	660
The European Parliament	662
The Court of Justice of the European Union	666
The European Central Bank and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development	667
Other Institutions	669
Citizens	670
8.3 Who Has the Power?	672
National Governments as Actors	672
The Councils as Actors	675
The European Commission and “Bureaucratic Politics”	675
European Parliament as Legislator and Watchdog	676
Private Interests	677
Citizen Inputs	678
Influential Individuals	679
8.4 How Is Power Used?	681
The Budgetary Process: Precursor to Economic Power	681
Revenue	682
Recipients of EU Funds	683
Allocation of EU Resources: An Overview	685

Economic Power and Objectives	685
EU Cohesion	686
Regulatory Power and the Single Market	686
Schengen Agreement	688
Rules on Competition and State Aids	688
Social Policy and the Environment	690
The Euro Area: Achievements and Crisis	690
Political Power: The European Union as a Global Player	694
Relations With North America	694
The Russian Bear and Economic Sanctions	696
Conflict Over the Ukraine	698
East European Partnerships	698
Relations With China	698
European Neighborhood Policies—Iraq, Iran, and Israel	699
Common Foreign and Security Policy	700
Citizenship, Freedom, Security, and Justice	703
Antiterrorism Policy	706
Immigration Crisis	708
Conflict With Turkey	709
EU Policy Assessment	709
8.5 What Is the Future of EU Politics?	711
Managing Economic Harmonization	711
Pending Enlargement of the European Union	712
The Russian Dilemma	714
Challenges to an “Ever-Closer Union”	714
The EU’s Own Vision of Its Future	715
Appendix	719
Index	746