

Iran, Islam and Democracy

The Politics of Managing Change

Ali M. Ansari

CHATHAM HOUSE
The Royal Institute of International Affairs

This revised and expanded third edition first published in 2019 by Gingko Library, 4 Molasses Row, London, under licence from Chatham House, the Royal Institute of International Affairs, London.

Sections of this book first published in Great Britain in 2000, 2009 and 2010 by Chatham House, the Royal Institute of International Affairs. Parts I, III, and IV copyright © Chatham House.

Part II of the current volume has been reproduced from Ali Ansari. Iran under Ahmadinejad: Populism and its Malcontents. International Affairs (2008) 84 (4): 683–700. By permission of Oxford University Press on behalf of The Royal Institute of International Affairs. Part II copyright © Oxford University Press.

Parts V, VI, and VII copyright © Ali M. Ansari, 2019.

The right of Ali M. Ansari to be identified as the author of this work has been asserted in accordance with the Copyright, Designs and Patent Act 1988.

All rights reserved. Except for brief quotation in a review, no part of this book may be reproduced in any form or by any electronic or mechanical means, including information storage and retrieval systems, without written permission from the publisher.

A CIP catalogue record for the book is available from the British Library.

ISBN 978-1-909942-98-1
eISBN 978-1-909942-95-0

Typeset in Times by MacGuru Ltd

Printed in Spain

www.gingko.org.uk
@gingkolibrary

Contents

Acknowledgements to the Third Edition	xi
Preface to the Third Edition	xiii
Part I – Iran, Islam and Democracy: The Politics of Managing Change	1
Introduction	3
Structure of the book	5
Sources	6
1 Iran, Islam and Democracy: The Theoretical Context	9
Iran, Islam and the ‘secularisation thesis’	13
Civil society and democratic development	20
2 The Politics of Managing Change	27
A contested inheritance	27
The roots of democratic development	28
The constitutional period, 1906–1921	28
Reza Shah and the Pahlavi autocracy	32
The interregnum, 1941–1953	34
The restoration of autocracy, 1953–1979	38
3 Revolution, Republic and War	43
The dialectics of the ‘collective will’	43
The limits of ‘charisma’	45
Competing movements	47
Religious nationalism	48
An unorthodox legacy	49
The ideological dimensions of power	51
Causes of authoritarian domination	52
The war	52
4 Rafsanjani and the Ascendancy of the Mercantile Bourgeoisie	55
The roots and development of the ‘mercantile bourgeois republic’	56

Developments in intellectual life	67
The intellectual revitalisation of the myth of political emancipation	73
The theoretical foundations of an Islamic democracy	76
Social responses to the bourgeois republic	83
5 The Failure of the Mercantile Bourgeois Republic and the Election of Khatami	86
Parties and personalities	87
The election campaign	98
The election of 2 Khordad	112
6 Contested Hegemonies and the Institutionalisation of Power	114
The reformist worldview	116
Policies	118
Agents of change (1): students	120
Agents of change (2): the press	122
Agents of obstruction	123
A new beginning	126
The foreign policy of reintegration	134
7 The Dialectics of Reform	146
The politics of managing change	147
The parameters of 'civil society'	149
Constitutionalism and historical appropriation	154
Reform and reaction	155
The politics of economic reform	174
8 The Tide of Reform	182
The imprisonment of Kadivar	187
The student riots	193
The campaign for the Sixth Majlis and the arrest of Nuri	203
The dialectic returns	214
High tide?	221
9 The Tide Stemmed	225
The attempted assassination of Hajjarian	226
The Berlin conference	229
The emasculation of the Majlis	230
The presidential elections of 2001	235
Reform in the shadow of 9/11	237
Iranian-US relations in the shadow of Afghanistan	239
The 'axis of evil'	243
Gridlock and the pursuit of constitutional reform	248

10 Full Circle?	253
Lost opportunities: Aghajari, Shahroudi, Taheri	253
America and the pollsters	261
Reform in the shadow of Iraq	263
Iran and the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty	267
The arrogance of power	270
Conclusion: From Reform to Neo-conservatism	277
Opportunities lost	280
The end of an era?	290
Appendix I: A Crisis Every Nine Days: Khatami's First Term	295
Appendix II: Ayatollah Taheri's Resignation Letter	308
Appendix III: Letter from 127 Deputies to the Leader Ayatollah Khamenei	313
Part II – Iran under Ahmadinejad: Populism and its Malcontents	321
The routinisation of charisma	326
The reinvention of charisma	331
Part III – Preliminary Analysis of the Voting Figures in Iran's 2009 Presidential Election	345
Executive summary	347
Irregularities in voter turnout	348
Where did Ahmadinejad's new votes come from?	350
Do rural voters support Ahmadinejad?	353
Appendix	356
Part IV – Crisis of Authority: Iran's 2009 Presidential Election	365
Introduction	369
Sources and methodology	374
The 2009 presidential election: the background	379
A brief history of elections in the Islamic Republic	384
The 2009 presidential election campaign	387
Countdown to victory	388
The primaries	394
Raising the stakes	397
A tale of two cities: Iran's opposing worldviews	398
Towards election day	402
Groundhog Day: from the sublime to the ridiculous	409

Fallout	415
Crisis of authority	416
The crisis escalates	425
The incoherence of dominance	429
‘A global conspiracy’	431
A conservative crisis	433
Longer-term consequences and policy implications	437
Domestic questions	437
Assessing the integrity of the election	438
Post-election violence and the fundamentals of governance	438
Government options	440
Assessing government support	441
The spectre of 1978	442
The opposition and the Green Movement	443
The economy	444
The direction of travel	445
Iran and the West	447
The necessary tools	448
Engaging Iran and the Iranians	449
Mastering Iranian narratives	450
Iran and the United States	451
Iran and the United Kingdom	453
Iran and the EU	454
Iran, Russia and China	455
Geopolitical lessons	456
Conclusion	457
An inconvenient truth?	460
Part V – Iran’s Eleventh Presidential Election: The Politics of Managing Change Revisited	465
Introduction	467
The burden of history	469
The ghost of Khatami	469
The spectre of Ahmadinejad	470
The campaign	470
Public scepticism	471
Hardline divisions	472
Building a drama out of a crisis	474

The election process	476
The diplomatic sheikh	477
Election day	482
A fractured elite	482
The result	484
A new dawn of prudence, moderation and hope?	487
Postscript: the politics of managing change	491
Part VI – The United States, Iran, and the Politics of the JCPOA	497
Introduction	499
The arc of history	500
A nuclear narrative	507
An inconvenient truth?	511
Heroic flexibility	515
Manufacturing consent	519
The ‘Guns of August’	524
The agreement	528
Looking forward	536
Conclusion	540
Part VII – Epilogue: Britain, Iran, and the idea of the Reform	543
Glossary	567
Chronology	569
Bibliography	572
Index	615